DROUTH GETTING SERIOUS

The drouth situation in Paris is assuming an acute stage and unless relief in the shape of heavy rains comes soon, Paris citizens may find themselves confronted with a water shortage. In fact, the Paris Water company has issued several warnings, advising people to restrict the use of hose, and are now issuing another, warning them to be careful and conservative in the use of water.

For a second time in almost a century the water has reached an extremely low stage in the creeks, Stoner creek being the main source of supply for the city. Should a sudden cold snap come of sufficient severity to freeze the creeks, with the small body of water in them now, the situation would take on a more alarming aspect, and the city would probably be placed in a serious plight. There must always be a sufficient supply for use in cases of fire, and to conserve this it might become necessary to cut off many uses of water as at present.

NOTICE TO WATER CONSUMERS.

OWING TO THE CONTINUED DROUGHT WE WILL BE COMPELLED TO LIMIT THE USE OF WATER TO SPECIFIED HOURS. WILL URGE ALL TO ECONOMIZE IN THE USE OF WATER AS MUCH AS POSSIBLE.
